From the President

I am honored to serve as president of the ELE this year. I am completing the last year of a three year term on the board. We have an excellent board, filled with capable, experienced volunteers.

John Nohinek chairs the landscape committee. Ken Eichenauer serves as architectural chair. Tracy Bush returns as social chair, after doing an excellent job last year. Denise Harrington continues to serve as tennis chair. She successfully supervised the resurfacing of the tennis courts last year. Emily Swanson continues as communications chair. In addition to editing the bi-monthly newsletter, Emily will update and distribute the neighborhood directory.

Welcome new board members, Patrick Dunn, who oversees the swimming pool, and Sam Salyer, serving as vice president. Mary Alice Holloway continues to serve as secretary. I would like to thank each of these neighborhood volunteers for their service.

I would like to recognize and thank outgoing president, Bill Maize, and vice president, Dianne Del Cid, for all of their efforts serving on the board over the past three years. Dianne graciously agreed to continue designing and implementing the color beds at the neighborhood entrances and clubhouse.

The major capital expenditure we are planning this year is the resurfacing of the pool deck. There are a number of smaller issues we will address as well, including the ongoing problems with the gate at the boat ramp and the broken section of fence by the canal.

Feel free to call or email me with any concerns. You can email me through the ELE website or call me at 817 307-0967.

Gene Gehring

President

Dental Hygiene 100 years

Proud Past & Unlimited Future

By ELE Resident, Denise Frank, RDH, BSDH

This year, 2013 is the 100th year of the profession of Dental Hygiene. It has been an exciting and enlightening year as celebrations continue all across the United States.

It all started back in 1913 when a dentist by the name of Alfred Fones – later known as the father of dental hygiene began to advocate the importance of prevention and educating patients. Fones created the first dental hygiene school in Bridgeport, Connecticut. Only women were allowed to enroll in the school and attend classes in the evening in the reception area of the carriage house where Fones practiced dentistry. In November of 1914, twenty-seven (27) graduated. By 1923, the profession had expanded and the American Dental Hygienists' Association (ADHA) was created in order to organize efforts. As the years have gone by, the requirements for entering a dental hygiene program have gone from 1 year past 8th grade to a minimum of a high school diploma and in most cases, college level pre-requisite courses. In 1952, all states began to license dental hygienists and the accreditation process for dental hygiene programs began. In 1986 the American Dental Hygienists' Association adopted a policy advocating for a bachelor's degree as the minimum degree for entry into the dental hygiene profession. There are still many excellent associate degree programs throughout the country but now, along with bachelor and master's degree programs. The profession has certainly come a long way!

This year, the American Dental Hygienists' Association Center for Lifelong Learning (ADHA CLL), which is the national annual session, celebrated 100 years of the profession in Boston, Massachusetts which is "just down the road" from Bridgeport, Connecticut where it all began in 1913. There were more than 3000 hygienists in attendance from all across the country. 146 were from District IX (which includes Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma). 104 were from Texas. It was so exciting to see how Boston embraced hygienists with banners in the hotel and along the streets of downtown. There was something going on for everyone at all times - from informative Continuing Education Courses, to top of the line exhibitors, to business meetings and lots of networking.

So, to sum it all up...there are now more than 150,000 Dental Hygienists nationwide comprised of both men and women with educations ranging from an associate's degree to a master's degree. This organized group of professionals has gone from a carriage house reception room to college degrees – all in 100 years!
